

More Searches, More Links, Better Outcomes

Instant device attribution, chronological history and activity from all other law enforcement agencies.

The NMPR provides the most comprehensive intelligence picture available to investigators today.

A simple interface gives one-stop, single-search access to over a billion records of device and item history data sourced from retailers, traders, manufacturers, insurers and the public. All data is fully consented to and requires no further authority to search.

Every search can't yield a case-critical result, but the footprint it leaves connects with all subsequent activity from other investigators, ensuring prompt, automated alerts when new information becomes available.

- Real-time connections to other LEA's investigations, crime reports, custody suite activity and found or seized items
- Search by device, phone number, mac address, IMEI, Bluetooth IDs, serial numbers, crypto wallet IDs, and other unique security marks and intrinsic identifiers
- Link your suspect in custody today with a crime report from a different force
- Discover that another agency shares your interest in specific items or phone numbers
- Identify device movements and trade, critical to lead generation

Crime Reduction Ecosystem

Recipero has spent over 20 years gathering data and building relationships with police, partners, clients and the public in order to develop a crime reduction ecosystem. The NMPR leverages this entire dataset, built from a number of unique solutions: the NMPR, Immobilise, Report My Loss, ClaimsCheck, AssetWatch and CheckMEND.
